engineering and mathematics (STEM) scholarships in May. This year, 13 Charleston, South Carolina, area high school seniors pursuing STEM degrees each received $3,000. This was a highly competitive year; award winners were selected from a pool of 39 applicants. The students averaged over a 4.88 GPA and were in the top 4 percent of their high school class. The funding for these scholarships is provided by two yearly local golf tournaments.

Chapter Sponsors Speaker,
Tour, Clothing Drive

Col. Kurt A. Schosek, USA, chief, Joint Cyber Center, U.S. Central Command, spoke at the chapter's April meeting. The colonel discussed the structure and mission of the Joint Cyber Center, along with challenges it faces. Also in April, the chapter held a drive to collect professional clothing for the needy, and Young AFCEANs toured the U.S. Special Operations Command's Global Enterprise Operations Center on MacDill Air Force Base. The center monitors a global network to support special operations forces across the globe.

School Receives Chapter Support

MacDill Air Force Base's Tinker Elementary was the beneficiary of chapter actions in April. Young AFCEANs volunteered at the school during its annual walkathon. The chapter also presented a check to Tinker Elementary to support its inaugural 8th grade awards banquet. Raffle proceeds from February, March and April chapter luncheons were donated to the school.

J-6 Official Discusses Patience Needed for Innovation

William W. "Bill" Burnham, technical director for U.S. Special Operations Command, J-6, spoke to the chapter at its May luncheon about organizations being patient enough to be innovative and the possible outcome of such efforts. The chapter also recognized the recipients of its 2015 college scholarship awards.
